La Fiesta de San Carlos de Borromeo

Carmel Mission Basilica will celebrate the feast of its patron saint, San Carlos de Borromeo, with a gala fiesta and barbecue in the old Spanish tradition on Sunday.

Featured will be entertainment such as the ancient Aztec dance, "Quetzales" which was presented in the Basilica courtyard last year by Joyce Kephart and Pat Blanchard in traditional attire featuring headdresses made by weaving colorful ribbons between arrow spokes. The dancers are members of Manuel Campos' group which also includes costumed Latin-American strolling musicians who will be a feature of this year's fiesta, too, playing in the Mission patio during the festivities.

From the very founding of the Mission, almost 200 years ago, it has been the custom to celebrate the feast of San Carlos, the gentle Cardinal of Milan who lived in the sixteenth century. He was the patron saint of King Carlos of Spain who sponsored the expeditions of the missionaries and the colonization of California. Fray Junipero Serra, therefore, thought it well to dedicate the chief mission to the king's patron saint.

The celebration on Sunday will begin with High Mass in the Basilica at 11 a.m. followed by a procession into the mission courtyard.

This week, major changes have been made to the historic Basilica altar to comply with recent decrees of the Ecumenical Council meeting in Rome. Plans were drawn prior to the departure of Bishop Harry Clinch, pastor of the Basilica, for the council.

Harry Downie, mission curator who has devoted years to restoring the Mission, is in charge of the work which will permit the priest to celebrate Mass facing the people. In the old liturgy, he faced the altar. It is hoped that the reconstruction will be completed by Sunday so that the Mass of the feast day of San Carlos may be celebrated for the first time on this occasion in the new manner.

A chicken barbecue will be served in the quadrangle from noon to 5 p.m. To shorten lines and improve service, extra help and additional barbecue pits have been secured for this year's event.

Booths for refreshments and games will be set up in the courtyard. Pinatas for the children will be provided every hour for different age groups. A teen dance for high school students will be held in Crespi Hall from 2 to 5 p.m., and will feature the live music of Jay Tolagson's popular six-piece combo known as "Jay and the

Mark Fives."

The public is invited to join the celebration. Tickets for the barbecue may be purchased at the gate or in advance at Central Box Office. Prices for the dinner are $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for elementary school children, preschoolers free. Admission to the teen dance is 50 cents.

'Warm' Lighting For Business Area

A "warm" shower of incandescent light, equal to 6,000 candles, falling from 30-foot high steel standards with overhanging arms is the type of street lighting which the city council approved last night for the business district. The new lighting will be installed on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh as the first unit of the underground wiring project undertaken by the P.G.&E. Eventually this lighting will be extended throughout the commercial area.

A P.G.&E. lighting expert told the council that the new lighting is "grossly inadequate for any but Carmel standards." He was referring to the fact that the approved street illumination is "the best compromise between the traditions and practices of the past and the demands and requirements of the future," as stated in the report prepared by Councilmen James C. Buffington and Stephen

Still Need Funds For Oil Refinery Referendum Fight

Councilman James C. Buffington told the city council last night that the Carmel Motel Association will "get behind" the campaign to force a referendum on the Humble Oil refinery at Moss Landing. City Attorney William Burleigh, who is helping in the campaign, states that donations are urgently needed to provide funds to progress to the legal stage in the fight. Such donations should be sent to the Six Cities Fund, Box 1915, Carmel, and will be used to employ legal experts.

He also urges letters, sent by certified mail, and stating opposition to the refinery, be written to Michael A. Hader, President, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City (Zip Code 10029).

This week, again unsuccessfully, Supervisors Thomson J. Hudson and Beauford Anderson, sought to have a petition requesting a referendum, signed by 15,000 persons, certified by the county clerk.

The request for a referendum is based on the premise that the Monterey County Board of Supervisors took legislative action when they granted the special oil refinery permit. This is denied by the county counsel. The present campaign seeks to explore expert legal opinions on this decision.

Approve Sunset Parking

Matters relating to Sunset Center were discussed at length last night by both city council and citizens. These were a pilot paid parking project on the north playfield and future development of the city's cultural and community center. A proposal for use of some of the Sunset premises by the American Federation of Arts was also considered.

The council decided to test the marketability of all-day off-street parking on the periphery of the baseball field. A possible 50 spaces will be offered on a seven-day-a-week basis from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily at $15 a month per stall.

Connected with this decision was approval of the extension of time-limit parking beyond present boundaries in the Sunset Center vicinity. Mayor Herbert Blanks and Councilman Gunnar Norberg voted against the project.

Citizens who expressed disapproval were Wallace Doolittle, Rose Crumrine and Robert Downs. The latter objected on the grounds that the parking was a commercial use in a residential district. He lives on San Carlos opposite Sunset Center and considered any surface parking would be visually objectionable. Later, in reply to a question from the Mayor, Mr. Downs said he would not object to a hidden underground facility.

The paid Sunset parking will provide income to reduce the cost to taxpayers of supporting the operation of Sunset Center and fill a need for all-day off-street parking in or near the business district. It will not interfere with present use of the playfield during the daytime or evening hours, the council decided.

Discussion on future development of the city's cultural and community center was the result of a Klenke Committee petition, signed by 526 Carmel residents. It requested that the council sound out public opinion by holding public forums and/or public hearings before a final decision is made on the development of Sunset Center.

The council approved a report prepared by the Mayor and Councilman Eben Whittlesey, which stated that the council and the Sunset Commission will "fully and publicly explore any and all re-

REPORTED MISSING IN VIET NAM

Mrs. Patricia DeAmaral received notification by telegram yesterday that her husband, Captain Frank DeAmaral, U.S. Air Corps, is missing in air action over Viet Nam. Mrs. DeAmaral and the couple's four children recently moved to Carmel Valley from Texas to be near her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeAmaral of River Ranch.

Captain DeAmaral graduated from helicopter training school at Fort Walter, Texas, in March and was here on leave this summer before reporting for special training at Fort Benning and assignment to Viet Nam.

Lovers of Nature, self-acclaimed,
They paint the lily, unashamed.
Observe the hill, the shore, the brook
Enhanced with this, the modern look.
And, as the artist scribes his hand,
So they in Nature's wonderland
Unsatisfied, these connoisseurs
Must leave their glaring signatures.

No, not for them the naked rocks,
The undefiled, the unorthodox.
And should horizons seem benign
They eagerly erect a sign.
See how each roadside bears their stamp,
Each meadow where they last made camp.
How lovely now their garbage glows—
Tableau-vivant of all tableaux.

How brightly beer cans light our way
To illustrate this cultured day.
How sweet is smog; how highly prized
Is filth. By God—we're civilized!

Four hundred and seventy-three years ago this coming Tuesday, an Italian gentleman who had a fixed idea—that the world was round—proved his theory when he discovered an island in the Bahamas chain. He was sure he had sailed to Asia and who was to say otherwise in those days.

Six years later, on a third voyage, he hit the mouth of the Orinoco River which was probably the first discovery of the mainland of the Americas. From this voyage he was sent home to Spain in chains. He managed to have his fetters cast off but never to his dying day regained honor in his adopted country and died in poverty and neglect, still believing the world was round and he had discovered the coast of Asia.

Poor Christopher Columbus! We'll honor you next week on Columbus Day. You put us on the map of the world, even though your contemporaries were sure you were going to fly off its flat face into space when you started out.

Nowadays, with the world so round and all, we are very busy exploring the space beyond the sphere you sailed on so valiantly. We've proved your theory without a doubt and some anthropologists are sure those people you met almost five centuries ago were displaced Asians.

Starting off from the continent which stopped Christopher Columbus, Planning Commission Chairman Dorothy von Meier has circled the globe, and by ship, too. She ended her voyage in England and this is how she found London.

I've come to London to see the town
Staying, not at the Hilton, but

"Don't Waste a Minute" should be the heading of the following report from the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School of the ceremony, a couple of weeks ago, when Captain Carl A. Hering relieved Captain George Haltiner of command of Naval Research Company 12-8.

"It was a unique operation, but fully in keeping with the daily experiences of the company's members, every one a scientist. At precisely 8 p.m. the two naval reserve captains stepped smartly to an IBM 'computer readout' machine, saluted, pressed a button, and before you could say 'Anchors

Aweigh' it was over. The usual reference to orders dated such and such, with the time honored expressions of 'I relieve you Sir,' and 'I stand relieved,' were transferred from the computer's memory to the printer and Captain Hering had the 'helm.'

"With the exception of the momentary whirr of the machines the ceremony was silent. The company—a group of naval reserve officers normally engaged in scientific pursuits—appreciated the efficiency of it all and complimented their leaders on this new application of computer science."

Total time for the ceremony was one-half second. Afterwards everyone went off to learn about biological and oceanographic research and see slides taken aboard the Stanford University research vessel, Te Vega.

How do you like that, Dr. Bolin? Computer science may have been wonderful but it only led to discoveries aboard your old-fashioned ship.

Chick Adamick, long-suffering anti-Giant baseball fan had sweet revenge against boss-man Herman Ayala of Su Vecino-Aztec Lounge when the Dodgers came on with a rush to cop the National League pennant. During the Giants 14-game winning streak, Herman pasted up the daily headlines for Chick's benefit and chagrin. However, visitors to the Aztec Lounge will now witness the coup-de-grace in the form of a black wreath replete with 14 wilting carnations (for the 14-game Giant winning streak) and two trailing ribbons, also in black which read, "At Rest" on one and "Giants" on the other. Herman, the good sport that he is, found it hilarious.

Vacationing Dr. Eric Berne became involved in games people play at the Carmel post office this week. From the Canary Islands, the author of the current non-fiction bestseller sent a postcard to his "Amigos de La Playa" in care of Frank Lloyd. Those Spanish linguists at the post office read the first line of the address and off went the postcard to La Playa Hotel. Detective work by the hotel staff resulted in the unofficial beachmaster of Reamer's Beach on Carmel Point getting the communication with which he was to be entrusted.

GOLD NUGGETS WORTH $100,000 TO BE SHOWN AT JUBILEE OF JEWELS

A collection of gold nuggets, valued at $100,000, will be displayed on Saturday and Sunday at the sixth annual Jubilee of Jewels of the Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society. The show will be held in the exposition building at the Monterey County Fairgrounds from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m.-6 p.m. on Sunday.

In addition to the gold collection belonging to the Bank of America, there will be other special exhibits and demonstrations of engraving, arrow making and forging. Food will be served from a snack bar. Organ music will add to the festive atmosphere of the event. Admission is 25 cents with children under 12 years old admitted free. Door prizes will be awarded every hour on the hour.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire Prevention Week is being observed with a special program this afternoon at Captain Cooper School, Big Sur. Members of the U.S. Forest Service, Big Sur Guard Station, headed by Fire Prevention Officer Art Martell, will talk with students about ways and means of fire prevention. There will be showing of a movie about "Smokey the Bear," narrated by Hop-A-Long Cassidy. For the occasion, Tom Brown, Carmel Hartford Insurance Agency representative, has made available red fire fighters' hats for the students and there will be distribution of literature and litterbags, all designed to make the girls and boys more aware of the need for fire prevention. Actual fire drills and demonstrations of the various pieces of fire fighting equipment will be part of the program.

Proudly the men of the U.S. Forest Service, at Big Sur, will "show off" their new Class I, Dodge tanker truck, which was recently assigned to them by the Department of Agriculture. The truck, which is equipped with 15 forward speeds and non-spin rear wheels carries various types of hose, shovels, axes, saws for felling large trees, a suction strainer (a most essential item in a country where the water supply for fire fighting must be obtained from creeks and rivers), several days' food rations, water canteens, back pack bags—all neatly stored in compartments that are around three sides of the truck. Everything is in readiness for instant use when the tanker truck and its five-man crew receive a call to "roll the tanker."

At the rear of the truck, there is the panel board with its pressure gauges, precisely folded hose and water gauges. Here one man is stationed. When the tanker is in action at the scene of a fire, there is a row of minute figures of men, drawn in the center of the panelboard—each man shown giving one of the various hand signals used by the crew fighting fire. The drawing was done by a veteran of the fire crew at Big Sur, John Uhle, from his original idea.

As a follow-up to Fire Prevention Week, Officer Martell, and members of the fire crew, will return to the school, during the several weeks following the special program today. A great fire danger still exists in the Los Padres National Forest, and in all coastal areas.

JUMPING SCHOOL

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Whitaker, daughter Tammy Lynn and son Jason Dean, returned last week to Big Sur from Redding where they have been living for the past five months. Mr. Whitaker, a member of the U.S. Forest Service at Big Sur, was in Redding and one a 24-foot chest canopy. They land equipped with two-day food rations, water, and paper sleeping bag. Usually three men jump at a time, within a given area. Shovels and other limited equipment are dropped to them. Their purpose is to ring the fire, or cut a fire break. A large part of their work is getting to lightning strikes, which usually occur in heavily forested areas, "ring" them and suppress them before the fire spreads.

"I loved the job," says Floyd Whitaker, "and I hope I can do it again—I must say that at the instant I left the plane, on my first real jump, it was an odd feeling, but after that I really enjoyed my work."

HOLIDAY CARNIVAL

A Holiday Carnival is scheduled for October 16 from 1:30 until 4:00 p.m., at Captain Cooper School, Big Sur, sponsored by the Parents' Club. President of the club, Mrs. Edward Branson Jr., and her committee, Marty Hartman, Jannie Makowski, Della Martin and Pat Batlin, are working out the plans for this special afternoon, which will include the setting up of booths for many types of games and contests. Proceeds from the carnival will be used to assist the fifth and sixth grade students at the school to take part in the outdoor education program to be held in the Santa Cruz Mountains in the spring. This will be the second time that boys and girls from the Big Sur school will have had an opportunity to take part in this activity of the Carmel Unified School District. The program lasts for one week and comprises students from Monterey, Santa Cruz and Santa Clara counties. In addition to teachers from the local schools (George Selvig of Captain Cooper will accompany his fifth and sixth graders) the staff includes undergraduates from San Jose State College and others.

Red Cross Needs Help For Viet Nam Project

The recent Red Cross request for paperback books to be sent overseas met with immediate and generous response. Monterey and Carmel-by-the-Sea chapters both met their quota with the cooperation of the fire stations that served as collection centers.

Over 3,000 books were sorted, packed into cartons, and sent to area headquarters in San Francisco before October 1. These books are now on their way to Viet Nam for the servicemen both in and out of hospitals. For the present no further contributions are needed, the Red Cross reports.

Another project assigned to the Carmel Red Cross chapter is the making of 200 "ditty bags" before October 15. Volunteer help for this project is needed. Mrs. Stephen Olop, co-chairman of the production committee, will be glad to hear from anyone interested in assisting. She may be reached at 624-8449 or through chapter headquarters.

Ambassador Freeman Here

On their return to Carmel, one of the first treats for the Honorable Fulton Freeman, U.S. Ambassador to Mexico, and Mrs. Freeman was a delightful luncheon yesterday at La Marmite, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Porter.

The Freemans, here from Mexico City for a month's vacation, are occupying their home in Rancho Rio Vista.

Families Picked

The beginning of the school year brings a special kind of picnic for families whose youngsters attend the Carmel Parent Nursery School. Gathering on the beach provides a perfect, relaxed opportunity for parents to become acquainted with one another, with other pre-schoolers and their big sisters and brothers, and for all to share in director Rosa Doner's warm hospitality.

Parents whose families enjoyed the annual picnic, held Saturday at the River Beach, were Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Bialek, Mr. and Mrs. James Brady, Mrs. James Bell, Mrs. Donald Brown, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. R. E. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. John Cocker, Mrs. Charles Bailey, Ronald Heisman, Mr. and Mrs. Linley Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Keefer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimble, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller Mrs. Glen Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seybold, Mrs. Ray Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stear, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thiele, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vanderveen and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilsdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan James brought along their houseguest, actor Gary Merrill who, to the delight of everyone, joined in the games with enthusiasm. Mrs. Russell Williams and her daughter, Molly, a school alumna, were also present, and, of course, Don Doner.

The Whites Have A Son

Monterey High School coach Kennedy (Ken) White and Mrs. White of Carmel became the proud parents of their first child, Michael Kennedy, on September 23.

The new baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. Thad McCann of Lodi.

Daughter For The Mills

Architect Mark Mills and his writer-wife, Barbara, have added a unique decoration to their already unusual house in the person of Blase, their second daughter, who was born at Community Hospital on September 29. Her "big" sister, Noel, aged four and a half, heartily approves of their choice.

Blase is the granddaughter of artist Louisa Jenkins of Carmel and Matthew Jenkins of Pebble Beach, and of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mills of Carmel.

October Wedding Plans

On October 19, Patricia Cornet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cornet of Carmel, will become the bride of Joseph K. Troxell of Fort Bragg, North Carolina, at Carmel Mission Basilica.

Patricia, who graduated in June from the Carmel High School, plans to continue her education in Germany, where her fiancé will be stationed at Frankfurt with the U.S. Army Special Forces.

Joseph is the son of Mrs. Lois Troxell of Sugar Grove, Pennsylvania. He graduated from Concordia Preparatory School in New York and was a pre-medical student before entering the Army.

Football Fans

Among local football fans cheering for Stanford at the Stanford-Navy game on September 25 in Palo Alto were Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Nowell, who made their home in Stockton until a year ago, and Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell and their daughters. Captain Sinclair Wright (USN Ret.) watched the event with torn loyalties, since he attended both Stanford and Annapolis, but Mrs. Wright re-

New Fire Chief

Last night, the city council officially ratified the employment of John R. Baker, 32, as Carmel's fire chief. He assumes his duties tomorrow. Chief Baker comes to Carmel from San Diego County where he has been chief of the Borrego Springs Fire District for three years.

Chief Baker was among 94 men who applied for the position of Carmel's fire chief. Following written examination, the field was narrowed to ten applicants. Of these, the top four took an oral examination before a board composed of Peninsula fire chiefs. Finally the city council interviewed two finalists and selected Chief Baker on September 13.

He is married and the father of three children. As a lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps, he served in Korea. Before going to San Diego County, Chief Baker was with the Mount Lebanon Fire De-

BUSY WEEK FOR AUTHOR

Mrs. Frank Beardsley returns to Carmel tomorrow from New York for a deserved rest after a week of personal appearances arranged by Random House, publishers of her book, "Who Gets the Drumstick?" While in Manhattan, the author appeared on several television programs, including "To Tell the Truth," and was filmed for overseas broadcast. Between autograph parties and more television appearances here on the coast, Mrs. Beardsley is going to have to wait awhile before relaxing in the "quiet" of the family again.

Granddaughter To Wed Here

Susan Leigh Ellithorpe, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thompson of Carmel, will be married to Wayne V. Conn of Tiburon on October 23 at The Church of the Wayfarer. Susan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Ellithorpe of Fresno, are frequent Carmel visitors, and the family has numerous friends here.

The bride-to-be attended Santa Catalina School for Girls, graduated from Roosevelt High School in Fresno and studied at Fresno State College, where she was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Her brother, George Ellithorpe, is a student at the University of Arizona.

Susan's fiance, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Conn of Woodland Hills, graduated from Pierce Junior College in San Fernando Valley and Siebel Institute of Technology in Chicago. He served as a lieutenant in the Marine Corps and is now associated with Schlitz Brewing Company in San Francisco.

After their wedding this month, the couple will make their home in Tiburon.

Enter Christopher Bowe

A potential alternate for the crew of Sheila and Mac Bowe's Folkboat arrived at Community Hospital September 27. Christopher Lucas is his name, and he joins two brothers at home, "Jib," whose real name is Matthew, and Ian. "This is the age of specialization," remarks Mrs. Bowe, "and we're specializing in boys."

The new baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stanton of Watsonville and Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Bowe, former Carmel residents who are now making their home in Mercer, Pennsylvania.

Despairing of trying to stretch the walls of their Carmel home to make room for their new son, the Bowes moved to a larger house in Pacific Grove last month.

Physicist Rejoins Faculty

Dr. Karlheinz E. O. Woehler, who taught at the Naval Postgraduate School from 1962 to 1964, has been appointed an associate professor of physics there. A specialist in plasma physics, he received his education in Germany and was a research physicist with the Max-Planck Institute in Munich. He is a frequent contributor to scientific publications and has served as consultant to North American Aviation in Los Angeles.

Dr. Woehler resides in Carmel with his wife, Annedore, and their son Markus.

New NPGS Staff Member

Dr. Ted Green, former assistant professor of civil engineering at Stanford University, where he participated in Naval research projects, has joined the Naval Postgraduate School faculty as an assistant professor in oceanography. Previously a structural dynamics researcher for Boeing, Dr. Green became interested in his present field while engaged in model studies of ocean circulation at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute.

Professor Green and his wife are now making their home in Carmel.

Their Hopes Prevailed

Several months ago it became apparent to the Frank De Amarals of River Ranch in Carmel Valley that their son, Captain J. F. "Frankie" De Amaral, was due for a tour of duty in Viet Nam. And for months they have used all their powers of persuasion to convince their daughter-in-law, Pat, to remain here with the four children rather than return to Texas while Frankie is absent. Now, with Pat established in the valley, the De Amarals are smiling contentedly and trying not to spoil their grandchildren, Frank III, M'Liz, Zane and Gwyn.

Newlyweds At Home

Now at home in Monterey are Mr. and Mrs. William James Leavy, the former Jacquelyn De Lois Ward, whose marriage took place at Highlands Inn chapel on September 18. The Reverend William R. Hett performed the late afternoon ceremony, which was followed by a reception at Highlands Inn before the couple left on their honeymoon.

The new Mrs. Leavy is the daughter of Mrs. Marie H. Ward of Carmel and Jack W. Ward of Wichita, Kansas. She attended Monterey Peninsula College after graduating from Carmel High School.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Leonard Leavy of Buffalo, New York, graduated from Burgard Vocational High School in Buffalo and attended Cansius College of Marine Engineering. He is a veteran of Naval service in the Orient and Viet Nam.

Officers' Wives' Event

"Autumn Modes," a Fall fashion show, will be presented on August 21 in conjunction with the election meeting of the Officers' Wives' Club of the Naval Postgraduate School. Hostesses for the social event, beginning at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of Herrmann Hall, will be the wives of members of the management and operations analysis departments.

Reservations for this meeting are by ticket only and are on sale at the booth outside the Navy Exchange. Mrs. John K. Peiguss, 394-7522, is reservations chairman.

Symphony Guild Tea

A Symphony Preview Tea for members of the Peninsula chapter of the Monterey County Symphony Guild will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Osborne, Cypress Drive near Beach Club Road, Pebble Beach.

Conductor John Gosling will preview the forthcoming October 19 concert and plans for the 1965-66 Symphony Guild year will be outlined.

Friday Event

True to his name, Lindsey James Friday was born on Friday—September 24 to be exact—making it more or less convenient for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Friday, to remember his birthday.

The new baby's grandmother, Mrs. B. M. Lindsey, was here to welcome him home last weekend, after which she took little Kimi and Jymy Lynn Friday to visit their grandfather in La Canada. Lindsey's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Friday of Pebble Beach.

In Who's Who

Carmel women whose names appear for the first time in the new issue of Who's Who of American Women are Nina Dorothy Caheen, Loava Helen Carter and Ellen Beery Little.

AFA COMPETITION AWARD WINNERS

Winners of the second annual competitive exhibition sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts are Howard Bradford of Big Sur, William Rabinovitch of Monterey and Zdenek Rada of Monterey. Mr. Rabinovitch also was awarded a one-man show in the AFA gallery in June, 1966.

Alfred Frankenstein, senior art critic of the San Francisco Chronicle, selected 26 paintings from 160 entries, made the three $300 prize awards and decided who would receive the one-man show. Other artists whose paintings will be on exhibition through the month of October in the gallery on Lincoln Street are Arthur Adelman, Renee Miller Alberts, Joe Ataide, Dolores Bowman, Jane Buffington, Genevieve Clibborn, James Crane, Edward F. Dunn, Traylor Dunwoody, Doris Gilpin, Ellwood Graham, Robert Horne, Ralph Jacobs, Fred Klepich, Leon Kotzebue, Irene Lagorio, Irene Love, Robert McIntyre, John Boit Morse, Thomas Pittard, Joan Savo, Peter Gun, T'Souvas and Vern Yaden.

A juried art exhibit, displayed in the arcades of the Spanish style Los Gatos Fine Arts building will be part of La Fiesta de los Artes to be held on October 16 and 17 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Painters, sculptors, ceramicists, weavers and other craftsmen will show their work.

An antique dealers' flea market will be included in the fiesta offerings. Food and drink will be served. Music, folk dancing and singing, dancing in the mall, all will be part of the fiesta entertainment. All proceeds will benefit the Ming Quong Children's Center which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

Portraits and still lifes in oil by Royal Stowell will be exhibited at the Carmel Foundation Town House during October.

In his portrait work, the nationally recognized artist revived the methods of French craftsmen of the 18th Century, working in red chalk or crayon as well as in oil and is practiced in the art of restoring. Mr. Stowell studied at the Art Students League, the School of Design and Cooper Union in New York City and at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn. He was also a student of portraitist Clinton Peters.

Some of his most notable work was done backstage at the Metropolitan Opera House, where he had as subjects Caruso, Galli-Curci, Geraldine Farrar and Fritz Kreisler. Franklin D. Roosevelt was among other notables painted by Mr. Stowell.

An exhibition of pottery, weaving, wood and metal sculpture and jewelry, entitled "Thirty Northwest Craftsmen," opened Monday at Hartnell College, Salinas, and will be on display through October 29. This exhibition of 87 creations is a traveling show sponsored by the Friends of the Museum of the University of Oregon Museum of Art and has a distinctive regional flavor. The public is invited to see the show from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 7-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

The several-times-postponed print show, "Photography 65," has at last been hung in the Monterey Peninsula College library lecture hall, Al Weber, MPC photography instructor, announces.

The show will be on view through October 15 during regular library hours, day and evening.

"Photography 65" consists of 34 prints selected from 275 submitted by 18 California junior colleges in a competition staged by Orange Coast College.

Twelve of the prints are the work of MPC students. One of the two first prize winners was Regina Hicks of Carmel. Other local residents whose work was accepted are Aileen Dufur, Carmel Valley, Bill Twibell and Barbara Litts, Carmel, and Albertha McConnell, Pebble Beach.

A one-man show of paintings by Barbara West opened today in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association on Dolores Street.

At the same time, an exhibition of artist members' work will be shown in the remainder of the gallery, to continue until November 4.

Peninsula artist Wayne Dye, his friends will be pleased to know, is continuing his work despite the fact that his hands and legs are paralyzed. He does so by means of a complex system of braces, pulleys, etc. which he designed while continuing his battle for recovery at Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center in San Mateo.

The seascape artist's busy career, which included sailing, boat building and skin diving, was cut short by an automobile accident late in 1963. He is hopeful that before too long he will be able to return to his "home" on the trimaran he built which now lies at anchor in the Monterey Marina.

Mrs. Robert E. Work, membership chairman for the local chapter of the American Federation of Arts, announces a drive for new AFA members. A change in the dues structure was approved at the August general membership meeting. The change provides for junior memberships (to age 21), $2; single membership, $5; and husband and wife membership, $7.50.

Explorarama Film To Feature Spain

An international explorer, Dwight Long, will appear in person on October 15 at 8:15 p.m. in Sunset auditorium to narrate his award winning color film, "Spain" as part of the Explorarama, Carmel series of travel-adventure films.

Mr. Long was the photographer of the famous academy award winning motion picture, "Fighting Lady" and won the Legion of Merit from the President of the United States for his work in this film.

His film about Spain won first prize at the Madrid Travel Film Festival and features scenes in Madrid, Toledo, Granada, Barcelona, Avila, Segovia, Valencia, Majorca, and the Rio Brava Coast.

Tickets will be available at the door the evening of the performance or in advance from Central Box Office in Carmel (624-6739).

AUDUBON SOCIETY OFFERS BIRD IDENTIFICATION AID

An aid in identifying local birds was initiated by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society last month. Captain Elgin Hurlbert, Mrs. Frank Culin and Mrs. Charles Anderson set up telescopes at Carmel River State Beach at noon on September 15. Visitors to the beach were invited to watch resident and seasonal species. Elegant terns, black oystercatchers, a sora and a Virginia rail were among the unusual birds listed. The project was so well received that it will be repeated on October 20 from noon until 3 p.m. The primary purpose is to assist beginners in bird study. Teachers and their classes are invited to take advantage of the three-hour period. Recreation workers, camp counselors, day camp leaders and other youth group leaders will find this helpful. Anyone who would like to know more about birds is welcome. For additional information dial 372-2278.

League Of Women Voters Apportionment Studies

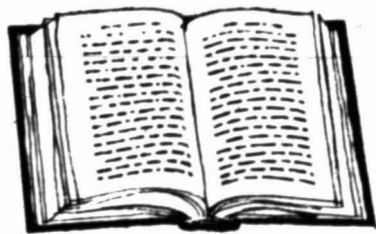

The Carmel unit of the League of Women Voters will meet October 14 at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Eben Whittlesey on Vizcaino Street. Legislative apportionment at the state level will be the discussion topic, led by Mrs. Richard Eldred.

This subject was explored at the national level in the September general meeting of the league, and it is suggested that members who missed the general meeting attend the all-Peninsula evening unit this month if possible. A review of the national apportionment problem will precede the state discussion at that unit. It will meet Thursday, October 14 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Leon Stutzman, 1475 Manor Road, Monterey.

Evening unit programs are designed primarily for women who cannot attend daytime meetings, and usually cover, at least briefly, the material from the previous general meeting.

You may have passed by this quiet place many times—but have never entered it. Yet here in this peaceful room, ready for you to read, is a book that has taught thousands how to love their fellow man—that has freed them from conflict with others and brought harmony into their daily lives. It can do this for you.

The place is the Christian Science Reading Room; the book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Stop at a Christian Science Reading Room soon; read the Bible and Science and Health in the quiet, undisturbed atmosphere provided for you. Borrow this book, free of charge. Or buy it for yourself. Library Edition $4. Paperback Edition $1.95.

Fountain & Central,
Pacific Grove

The next general meeting on October 21 will conclude the apportionment study, and members in good standing will be asked to participate in a consensus.

An orientation session for new members and interested prospective members will take place at 11 a.m. before the general meeting and luncheon at the Monterey Youth Center.

The League of Women Voters is open to all women of voting age. It is a national non-partisan organization whose aim is to promote political responsibility through informed and active citizen participation in government. Any woman to whom this sounds interesting is earnestly invited to attend a meeting as a guest.

Directions to Mrs. Whittlesey's house may be obtained from her (624-4526), or the membership chairman, Mrs. J. David Reed (624-3121).

U.S. Champion Will Race At Laguna Seca

George Follmer of Pasadena, current U.S. road racing champion driver, will compete for a share in the $40,000 purse of the sixth annual Monterey Grand Prix at Laguna Seca track on October 15, 16 and 17.

Follmer, driving the Trans-Ocean Lotus Porsche that carried him to U.S. championship honors, will be battling all the way against the strong Chaparral team combination of Jim Hall and Hap Sharp.

Hall was the 1964 USRRC champion and might easily have been the 1965 champion had not mechanical problems throughout the season forced him to retire from what, at times, seemed a sure victory.

Dick Clark First In S.F.B. Morse Regatta

Clear skies and good breezes combined for near perfect conditions during the S.F.B. Morse Regatta at Stillwater Cove last weekend, with 12 Mercuries competing in the annual three-race series that wound up the Stillwater Yacht Club sailing season.

Dick Clark, with one third and two first places, led the field to take first place with a low total of five points. Van Yates, his nearest competitor, had a total of 11; Lorilott Clark placed third, with 12 points; Dick Catlin fourth, 13 points; George Yates fifth, 14 points.

Other participants, in order of place, were Topper Gould, Steve Gould, Mark Raggett, Don Wythe, Laurie Washburn, Gene Crittendon and Tom Perry.

Following the last race on Sunday afternoon, trophies were awarded at the Beach Club by John Boit Morse in behalf of his father, founder of the yacht club and the man for whom the regatta is named. A special presentation was made to Commodore Thomas Perry.

White Oaks Theatre Opens Winter Season Tomorrow Evening

The first full winter season at Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre starts tomorrow with the presentation of "The Innocents," William Archibald's adaptation of a psycho-horror tale by Henry James. The play, to be followed by five others running through May, will be performed Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m. through November 6.

Archibald adapted the suspenseful drama from James' "The Turn of the Screw," a short story delving into the lives of a frustrated English governess and her prececious charges, a boy and a girl possessed of a vicarious mixture of good and evil.

Veterans of the theatre's summer season take the four major roles: Mary Pattie (Miss Giddens) had the female lead in "Can-Can"; Tracy Carr (Mrs. Grose) headed the cast of "Brigadoon"; George Gray (Miles) and Barbara Mak-inster (Flora) shared major parts in the children's theatre production of "Off With His Honorable Head."

Chris Flynn and Ron Stark, also summer company members, round out the cast under the direction of Tom Gruenewald. Artistic director Gale Peterson has executed costumes typical of the 1880's era of the play, and an authentic set has been rendered by scenic and lighting designer Joan Larkey.

Information, reservations and season tickets are available, by telephoning the theatre (659-2248).

Community Chest Residential Area Captains Announced

Mrs. Webster Street of Carmel Hills, chairman of the Carmel residential solicitation for the 1965-66 Community Chest campaign, today announced her captains for the drive.

The Carmel residential team is being asked to raise six percent more money than was raised last year in Carmel. Chest needs call for 12 percent more than the entire Peninsula donated a year ago, but Carmel residents and volunteers have responded well to Chest appeals over the years and the six percent is thought to be a more equitable increase in the case of Carmel, according to Chest leaders.

Consequently, Carmel is being asked to raise $24,000 through its residential campaign, and $8,369 in business. The latter is headed by Brigadier General Frank J. Caulfield (USA ret.). The residential quota is but $159 more than was raised in 1961 in Carmel residential. The business quota is $900 more than last year, but $200 less than was raised in 1962.

A newly-formed Salvation Army Corps on the Monterey Peninsula has been added to the Chest package this year. It will require $12,000 of the total increase of $21,000 needed by Chest agencies.

Mrs. Street's captains include Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Mrs. Raymond Benson, Mrs. Richard Hittinger, Mrs. Horace Jayne, Mrs. John T. Bohlman, Miss Dewie Dutton, Mrs. Frances Ewing, Miss Bernice Mello, Mrs. F. K. Duhring, Mrs. Robert K. Sparkes, Malcolm Steel, Mrs. Glenn Terry, Mrs. Robert Goulding, Mrs. G. W. C. Whiting, Mrs. Charles Rosewall, Mrs. Stanley Ewig, Mrs. Dan Yurkovich, Mrs. Amelia Wheelchel, Mrs. Mary Randolph, Mrs. William Burleigh, General George P. Wahl, Mrs. Robert Crivello, Mrs. Donald Criley, Mrs. Richard Hill, Mrs. John Ruster and Mrs. Robert Price.

Arthur Bellick

Private services for Arthur L. Bellick, who was found dead in his Monterey office Friday, were held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove. Mr. Bellick was believed to have suffered a heart attack.

With his wife and only survivor, Cecile Hampton Bellick, he was a resident of the Carmel area for many years and had most recently made his home in Pebble Beach. He maintained an accounting practice in Carmel and Monterey and was semi-retired at the time of his death.

Born in New York City on March 13, 1908, he was a veteran of World War II U.S. Army service with the rank of major.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Bellick may do so in the form of contributions to the Community Hospital Building Fund, Box HH, Carmel.

Muriel Megahan

Private funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, for Miss Muriel Megahan, who died Sunday at her home on 12th Street after a brief period of failing health. A native of Mission San Jose, Miss Megahan was a resident of Carmel for the past 11 years.

She was a member of the Monterey County Symphony Guild, the Monterey History and Art Association and the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services.

She is survived by her sister, Miss Mabel Megahan, with whom she made her home.

Friends wishing to make contributions in the memory of Miss Megahan may do so to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Carmel, of which she was a member.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Helen Larkey

Mrs. Helen Larkey, a resident of Carmel from 1943 until recently, died Friday in a San Jose hospital after an extended illness.

Born in 1896 in Saint Paul, Minnesota, she came to California as an infant with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisher. Her father, a civil engineer, assisted the late Frank Devendorf in laying out the city of Carmel, and Mrs. Larkey spent much of her youth here.

For 17 years, she was a greatly admired elementary teacher at Carmelo School. On her retirement in June, 1964, her former students and colleagues honored her at a farewell party, presenting her with a trip to Hawaii. Educated in San Jose schools, Mrs. Larkey was a graduate of San Jose Normal School, now San Jose State College.

Mrs. Larkey leaves a daughter, Joan Larkey of Big Sur; a sister, Mrs. Florence Barnard of Saratoga; and a brother, Raymond Fisher of San Jose.

R. D'Agliano

Recitation of the rosary was held this afternoon in the Paul Funeral Chapel for Raffaello D'Agliano, who died Tuesday at his home on Atherton Drive after a period of failing health.

Born in Italy on January 6, 1908, Mr. D'Agliano was a resident of Carmel for the past five years, having made his home previously in Santa Cruz.

Long a restaurateur, he and other members of his family recently opened Raffaello's at the new Club XIX in Pebble Beach.

Mr. D'Agliano leaves his wife, Amelia; a son, Remo D'Agliano of Carmel; a sister, Mrs. Norina Domenici, and a brother, Espirit D'Agliano, both of Paris, France; and a granddaughter, Sabina D'Agliano of Carmel.

A private requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow morning in Carmel Mission Basilica, to be followed by private entombment.

Carmel High School Scholarship Honors

Eleven Carmel High School students have been honored with letters of commendation for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test taken last Spring. They scored among the top two percent of students in the United States who will complete high school this June.

Those who received the letters were Thomas A. Arima, Geoffrey

Parish Dinner At All Saints' Church

A dinner to herald the opening of a month-long stewardship-member canvass campaign will be held on October 15 in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church. Colonel Karl Scherer (USA ret.) will head the campaign. Miss Barbara Kynaston will supervise the dinner which will be preceded by a social half-hour.

Children of families attending the event will participate in a picnic dinner and movie in the adjoining kindergarten room.

The keynote address of the evening will be given by Dr. Philip Rhinelander, professor of philosophy and dean of humanities at Stanford University. He will speak on "Education for a Christian in the Modern World."

Reservations for the dinner should be made by Sunday by telephoning the church office (624-3883). After that date, attendance will be on a space available basis.

C. Cocks, John B. Dickinson, Robert J. Fonseca, Ronnie M. Fukagawa, Jeffrey E. Hudelson, Hazel B. Jacoby, David H. Partridge, Bruce A. Perry, Marian E. Reed and Susan C. Rzeppa.

John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship corporation said of these students, "They represent an important intellectual resource which our nation needs. Their's is a notable academic achievement."

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel 624-3881.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

"The Memorials of a Southern Planter" by Susan Dabney Smedes is probably a classic. It is at least a book which has not been allowed to go out of print since 1887 when it was first published. It has just been re-done by Knopf in an edition which is kind both to the hand and the eye, which is par for the Knopf course. This is the Old South before, during, and just after the Civil War. To modern eyes the actual writing may seem theatrical, a bit smarmy. But fascinating, but fascinating!!

Another book about the South, which has never been published until now, is "The South As It Is: 1865-1866." A little over a hundred years ago, and only three months after Lee's surrender, the magazine, "The Nation" sent a correspondent on a rambling trip through the South to gather material for a series of articles on the Reconstruction. Of course these articles were published in a long series in the magazine, but they have just been re-edited and gathered together in book form. The South "as it is" in 1865-1866 shows the same discouraging pattern as we find down there today. The writer's name was John Richard Dennett.

The building of the Trans-Siberian Railway is the subject of "To the Great Ocean" by Harmon Tupper. Prisoners built the railway and in those happy days a man could be exiled to Siberia for crimes such as usury, debt, incorrigible drunkenness, wife beating, or felling trees without a permit. The book is illustrated with many photographs for train buffs who want to know just what the whole thing looked like in those days.

Premarital chastity is a much discussed state in these times and a book which is strongly pro-chastity has been written by Evelyn Duvall. It is entitled "Why Wait Till Marriage?" The author says that so many parents say "no" but do not tell why they say "no." This book tells why.

In all probability you will be unable to put down "Wondrous World of Fishes" which is an enthralling collection of pictures and articles from the National Geographic Magazine. Even though you are no skin-diver, no ichthyologist, nor even a fisherman, this book with its alluring pictures will hold your interest. And while we are a-naturing, let us consider "Portrait of a Desert" by Guy Mountfort. The desert in question is known as the Eastern Desert in Jordan and in 1963 the author made an expedition there with the permission of King Hussein. This is archeology, ecology, ornithology, and any other "ology" applicable to desert living, all illustrated by photographs.

A new series of pre-school story hours will be starting soon. The present series is about midway in its run. If you have small ones who like to listen to stories, we have a person who loves to tell them, namely Mrs. Colvin, and you should enroll your children in the next series. This is a fun thing geared to the very young and they love it.

Book Reviews

"Who Gets The Drumstick?" written by Helen Beardsley; published by Random House; $4.95.

A picture by Murle Ogden, Carmel photographer, adorns the jacket of this book and depicts the author and her husband, Frank, who live on Rio Road near Carmel Mission Basilica. The Beardsleys' large family of 20 children is shown in another jacket picture.

These 22 persons are the subject of the story which Mrs. Beardsley tells in a charmingly frank, sincere manner. She gives credit for assistance in the preparation of the book to Frank Beardsley, "whose head and heart were always as close to the book as mine," in an acknowledgement in the front of the volume. In the same statement, she pays a tribute to the two oldest sons of the family, Michael and Rusty, "for their efforts and sacrifices with the fighting Marines, thus ensuring that Americans will always be at liberty to write a book." Both youths are in Viet Nam with the third U.S. Marine Division. A third son is attending the University of San Francisco.

"The little children are growing up. The atmosphere of the house keeps changing. A mood and time so precious to us is lost, while at the same time our memories and hearts are enriched. And for Frank and myself, our experience has the mystery and grace of love — the love of God, the love of family, the love of two people for each other," says Mrs. Beardsley in a postscript to "Who Gets The Drumstick?" These words give the essence of her book.

She begins her story on the morning of the day her first husband, a career Navy officer, lost his life in a plane crash. The narration continues with her adjustments to being the mother of eight fatherless children, also the emotional reactions of her family to this situation.

She describes the chain of coincidences that led to her eventual marriage to Frank Beardsley, a widower with ten children, in Carmel Mission Basilica, and the subsequent birth of two more children. The book ends with the adoption of Mrs. Beardsley's children by Frank Beardsley and similar procedure by Mrs. Beardsley, thus uniting the family in law as well as love.

In between, are told many of the details of life in Carmel's largest family. This will be of special interest to local persons who pass the large gray house and wonder what goes on inside. Shopping for the Beardsley family, holidays, publicity and curiosity, moments of friction and joy are humorously and sensitively described in "Who Gets The Drumstick?"

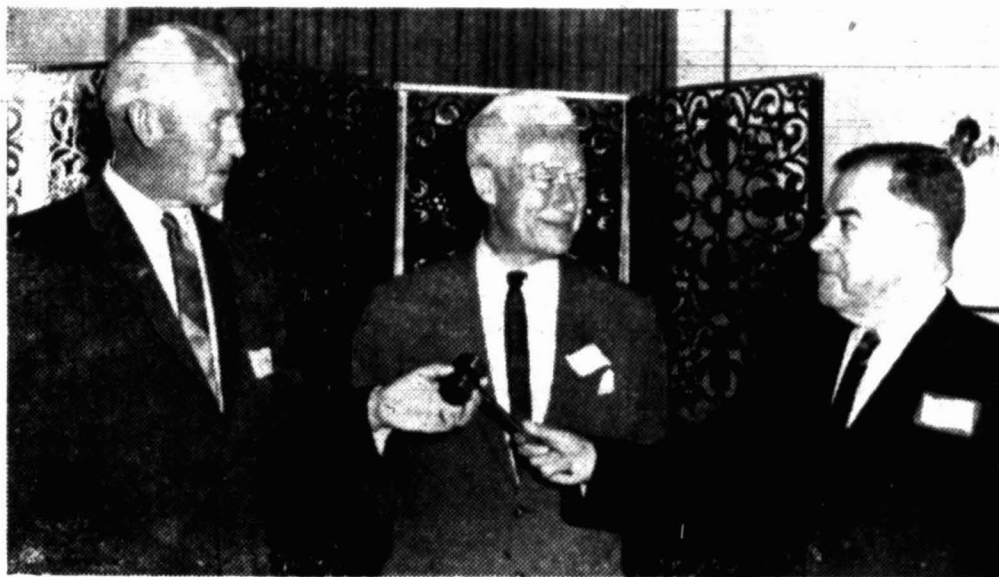

Eight pages of photographs illustrate events written about in the text. One of these pictures is by Murle Ogden. Three are by another Carmel photographer, Art McEwen.

On October 16, Helen Beardsley will autograph copies of her book at the Carmel Rancho branch of The Wells Book Store from 3-6 p.m., Henry Williams, owner of the business, announces.

"Bottles And Bins Recipes" edited by Francis L. Gould; published by C. Mondavi & Sons; $2.50.

On sale in local book stores is carefully scrutinized for condition, include books, maple furniture, good clothing, oil paintings, plants and driftwood. There will also be home-made baked goods and gourmet specialties.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for the Sunday School program of the Church in the Round.

"Bottles And Bins Recipes," a compilation of wine cookery recipes collected by the century-old Charles Krug Winery of St. Helena and its present owners, the Mondavi family. Illustrations are the work of Artist Mallette Dean. Underneath them are quotations on wine and food by well known authors.

The recipes have been collected from gourmet cooks all over the United States and even include a way to pot roast bear with red wine in the numerous game cookery recipes. S.F.B. Morse of Pebble Beach tells how to grill venison. Mrs. Harlan Ware and Mrs. Stanley Pearce of Carmel have contributed their cookery specialties to the book which also contains information on herbs and spices and the what, when and how of serving wines. This is a book which adds much to the art of fine cooking. The spiral binding allows the book to lie flat when any recipe, hors d'oeuvres to desserts, is being prepared.

"A General's Story" written by Brigadier General M. L. Stockton (USA ret.); published by Vantage Press; $3.95.

This book is the work of a resident of Pacific Grove and will be released on October 25. General Stockton's writing spans military service from World War I to World War II and includes his post-war experience as a business man. In addition, he relates anecdotes of persons he met; his fishing and hunting experiences in varied locations. He has had a full life and quite evidently has enjoyed writing about it in a personal and breezy style.

G. M. Kennedy

George Morrison Kennedy Sr., a Carmel resident for the past eight years, died in a Salinas Hospital Monday following a lengthy illness.

Born on April 5, 1877, he was a native of St. Mary's, Ontario, Canada.

Mr. Kennedy was a member of Malta Lodge No. 131, F&AM, of Grand Forks, North Dakota, where he was for many years an employee of the Grand Forks Transportation Company.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Jane Kennedy of Carmel; three daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Suhr of Belfair, Washington, Mrs. Jerome Determan of Silverdale, Washington and Mrs. Gene Bartlett of Marina; two sons, George M. Kennedy Jr. of Davis, Everett T. Kennedy of West Frankfort, Illinois; a sister, Mrs. Linda Cohoe of Pilot Mound, Manitoba, Canada; 12 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Services for Mr. Kennedy will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Paul Funeral Chapel, with the Reverend Lawrence K. Whitfield of the Church of the Wayfarer and the Carmel Masonic Lodge officiating.

Burial will take place in El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

BILL ASKEW EARNS MERIT RAISE

Public Works Commissioner Stephen Grant, last night, asked the council to grant Superintendent of Public Works William L. Askew Jr., a merit advance to Step 6 in the city's salary scale. He cited the thousands of dollars Mr. Askew had saved the city by his ingenuity as warranting the merit increase which was granted.

The council approved limited time parking on both sides of Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh, also both sides of Seventh between Monte Verde and Lincoln. Purchase of a tape recorder, now being rented, was approved. This action will save the city $186.49.

PURSE SNATCHED

Operating in the same general uptown area as in previous incidents, a purse snatcher last evening collected $40 in cash, a plane ticket and credit cards when he grabbed a handbag from Mrs. K. R. Williamson of Studio City at Fifth and Junipero Streets. Inadequate light hampered the victim in getting a good description of the thief, who ran out of sight, but he was thought to be a youth.

WATER DISTRICT TO DISSOLVE ITSELF

Directors of the Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District agreed, unofficially, to the group's voluntarily dissolving itself in order to save voters the cost of a special election.

Board members directed their attorney, Myron B. Haas, to confer with County Counsel William Stoffers on ways which the district's self-dissolution may be accomplished. He is to report back on October 18.

Lutheran Pastor Has Arrived To Establish New Church In Carmel

A new Lutheran Church is being established in the Carmel community under the leadership of the Reverend J. Bernhard Brethelm. The church will be affiliated with The American Lutheran church which has a membership of over 2,500,000 persons. The church is being established under the sponsorship of the Division of American Missions which has its national headquarters in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and a regional office in Cupertino, California.

A parsonage has been purchased on Flanders Drive at Canyon Drive in Carmel Hills where Pastor and Mrs. Brethelm and their two children are now living. For the time being an office has been set up in the parsonage for the pastor until a permanent church is erected.

A site is currently being sought for the church building in or near Carmel. Worship service and church school will be held in a temporary meeting place beginning in November. The name of the local church will be St. Philip's Lutheran Church, in honor of the Apostle and Evangelist, and the retiring director of American Missions, Dr. Philip Dybvig.

The Reverend Mr. Brethelm comes to Carmel for his fourth parish in 17 years in the ministry, having served a parish in Montana, and two in Washington. His most recent parish was the Bethel Lutheran Church of Burien, Seattle, Washington, where he served for six years. The congregation there more than doubled its membership under his ministry. He is a graduate of Augsburg College and Theological Seminary in Minneapolis, Minnesota. His father has been a Lutheran pastor in Minnesota and North Dakota. He has a brother who is a pastor, also, and has just recently moved to Appleton, Wisconsin, to begin a new congregation under The American Lutheran Church. He and his brother have been tenors in male quartets that traveled quite extensively during college days and as late as 1953 in a youth pastor's quartet.

Mrs. Brethelm is a graduate of the Swedish Hospital School of Nursing in Minneapolis, but has had to concentrate on her parsonage career since completing her training, with but a few exceptions. Her hobby is playing the piano, and she often accompanies her husband or plays the organ for church services.

Pastor and Mrs. Brethelm are here to serve their new congregation, but offer their services to anyone in the community who would call upon them. They can be reached by calling 624-6765 in Carmel.

LETTUCE BOWL MANAGER

Don Borden of Carmel, director of physical education at Monterey Peninsula College, has been appointed to serve on the board of managers for the fifth annual Lettuce Bowl football game. The board directs the game and selects participants. This year's game is scheduled for November 27 in Salinas.

Sunset Parking Approved

"On conclusion of such public forums and hearings," the approved report stated, "the council, as elected representatives of the people, will carry out the mandate of the people as expressed in the Sunset bond election, guided by the expressions of the people as determined during public forums and hearings."

At the request of Councilman Stephen Grant, both the ballot and proponents' arguments sent to all electors before the election in April, 1964, were read. Neither mentioned development of a community and cultural center by a non-profit organization.

Carvel Baldwin, a citizen present at last night's council meeting, said that in circulating the Klenke Committee petition, he discovered many residents were fearful of future Sunset Center development being undertaken by "outsiders." He urged the council to concentrate on development "by Carmel not outsiders" of a beautiful, traditional cultural and community center by updating the present Sunset buildings and including civic administrative facilities. He offered to show the council how such development could be run using motel tax funds.

Councilman Whittlesey said Mr. Baldwin's expressed interest was encouraging and stressed that "the door is wide open" for any proposals for "effective development" of Sunset. The problem was how to finance any proposal made by citizens or a non-profit group.

Mayor Blanks stated that "Nothing will be done in haste. Your pocketbooks are being considered. It takes 20 cents of the tax rate to operate Sunset now." He emphasized that, as yet, no decisions have been made, only ideas advanced, also that no definite proposals had been made for future development.

Councilman James C. Buffington also stressed that no definite proposals for the development of Sunset had been presented.

Wallace Doolittle implored the council not to consider any "big promotion." He was confident that a larger auditorium was unnecessary because there would be "nothing to bring here" that would warrant more seating capacity than the present 750-seat auditorium.

"Let's consider doing it ourselves. We'll have to eventually," he told the council in respect to future development of Sunset Center.

At the request of the Mayor, Sunset Commission Chairman Peter Dyer stated that this body is "moving thoughtfully" with an open door policy in regard to proposals of responsible groups.

"We see nothing wrong in listening to proposals such as Mr. Baldwin's," he added.

"We are very jealous of the nature of Sunset and Carmel and will never consider possible jeopardy," he continued but pointed out that, at present, the operation of Sunset is "beset financially."

Also at last night's meeting, the council decided to ask other major users of Sunset what their reactions are to permitting the local chapter of the American Federation of Arts to use cafeteria and kitchen areas of the facility at a monthly rate below that paid by present lessees. After such information is received, the council will, at the request of the Sunset Commission, reconsider the decision made last month that the AFA must pay for cafeteria use.

The report also advocated that, where possible, light poles should be located in conjunction with existing, or newly developed, sidewalk tree planting and landscaping to make the light standards less apparent.

The higher intensity of the new lights is necessary because of police problems in the night hours and for the safety of the public, but a minimum of poles is considered desirable for aesthetic reasons and to permit maximum tree planting and landscaping in sidewalk areas.

This morning, a Carmel citizen, Carvel Baldwin, told the Pine Cone that he will protest the new lighting. The tall standard with an overhanging arm is not what the people of Carmel will like, he insists.

Mr. Baldwin considers that the

Our Gallant Mayor Rescues Tourists Lost Among Trees

Nineteen trees, also tourists caught in a traffic jam, claimed the attention of the city council Tuesday afternoon on its monthly tree tour meeting. The unexpected traffic jam occurred at one of the most unlikely intersections in town, Torres and Tenth.

The council arrived at this location after denying Albert E. Lingert permission to cut down what he considered a hazardous 90-foot pine in front of his property on First Street. However, the council decided to allow the crown of this giant to be trimmed to lessen possibility of its being blown down in a storm.

As councilmen, city officials and the press converged in cars at Torres and Tenth, a car from Michigan carrying three young ladies drove up the steep Torres hill and found no place to go... just trees, cars and councilmen.

Mayor Herbert Blanks went to the rescue and gallantly explained to the young ladies that they were not heading for Highway One as they thought and indicated the right direction. But parked cars crowded the one exit route. Council consideration of a city tree with an advanced case of heart rot was interrupted by squealing brakes as the driver of the Michigan car attempted to weave her way out without slipping backwards down the hill into another car.

The mayor went to the rescue again, extricated the young ladies' car and then found that the car behind them was occupied by lost California tourists. The Mayor headed them in the right direction, too, and the council got back to silviculture, in particular the 60-foot tree which Mrs. Egbert Schenck wished removed. The council decided that a bore test should be made to find out how council's approval of this kind of standard was precipitous and did not take into consideration the wishes of citizens.

badly fungus had invaded the heartwood of the tree, which, although in its declining years, might well grace the Eighty Acres for some years to come without endangering Mrs. Schenck's house during storms.

Lastly, the council convened back of Sunset auditorium to consider what should be done to 17 crowded black acacias, halfway through their life span and causing a sidewalk problem. The decision made was to fell nine to benefit the others. Remaining trees will be trimmed to improve their appearance. Trees removed will be replaced with a more desirable species, or planting. City Forester Hugh Smith recommended the above solution to the acacia problem.
